THE COAL MINE HORROR.

Speculations Regarding its Origin. The current of speculation in the village has turned away, in a great measure, from the consideration of how far the furnace in the mine was re-sponsible for the fire to the formation of opinions as to the manner and the motive of firing the brettles The witnesses, as you will notice by the evidence, who opposed the originally accepted theory of the fire, gave no intimation as to whom they thought responsible for the fearful incendiarism suggested by their testimony, and the counsel for the mining companies made no attempt to secure an expression companies made no attempt to secure an expression of opinion on that head. On inquiry I was informed that the counsel for the companies intended to reserve this point until they could secure an overwhelming amount of evidence from experts opposed to the idea of fire coming from the furnace to the shaft, and then they expect to show, by implication, that some man or set of men must have maliciously restorated the work of destroying and death. performed the work of destruction and death.

with whom I conversed to-day give any consideration to the thought that one of their number could have deliberately meditated the destruction of human lives in firing the Avondale shaft. Some ignorant, thoughtless miner, determined to revenge himself upon the company for some real or functed wrong, might have played the incendiary, without ever conceiving to what dreadful results it would lead. The inside boss, Mr. Evan Hughes, it is said, was unpopular with his Welsh fellow-countrymen, and the same is said of his brother, Mr. Benjamin Hughes, and the President and Superintendent of all Hughes, and the President and superintendent of al the mines belonging to the Delaware and Lacka wanna Company.

The miners represent all nationalities, the prepon derance being Welsh; but even among these there are jealousies and quarrellings from time to time. When Mr. Benjamin Hughes. Thomas Carson, and Thomas Watkins come up to give their evidence at the inquest on Tuesday next a food of light will be thrown upon this now mysterious question, as these three are among the most competent to give a defected of the disc.

CITY INTELLIGENCE. ANOTHER PROBABLE MURDER.

A Lawyer Attacked at Thirteenth and Wood Streets.

The corners of Thirteenth and Wood streets, within a year or two past, have been made notorious by the villainous characters who have been in the habit of congregating about them. Scarcely a week passes but we are compelled to record some criminal act which has been committed by this gang. Arrests after arrests have been made, but nothing further has ever been heard of the criminals. Emboldened by partiality which has been shown them by somebody, they almost nightly attack some citizen who may happen to have occasion to pass that way.

The subject of breaking up the objectionable ticket nominated by the Democratic City and County Conventions, and replacing it with the names of high toned gentlemen, has been long talked of and has been the frequent cause of discussion in the City Executive Committee. At a meeting held last week it was believed that the whole matter had been consummated, but Mr. S. Gross Fry objected on the ground that the new ticket should be nominated by the conventions, which should be reconvened and not by the City Executive Committee. However, Mr. Fry on Saturday withdrew from the ticket, and at a meeting of the Executive Committee this morning the plan of Executive Committee this morning the plan of action was adopted. All the present candidates were to withdraw and the committee have the power to name their successors. The committee then proceeded to canvass the names, and at the last report had agreed upon the above ticket. The gentleman to take Stewart's place on the ticket had not been

THE NEW YORK MONEY MARKET.

The following extracts show the state of the New York money market on Saturday:-From the Herald.

"The present condition of our local finances is no criterion for the course which stocks will take in the immediate future. They may go down or they may go up. It is just as the cliques determine. The biame lies with the cliques, however, for the sudden change in the position of the banks can be attributable only to their interference. It is known that a combination has been formed to lock up preenhacks and make money tight. can be attributable only to their interference. It is known that a combination has been formed to lock up greenbacks and make money tight in order that the small operators who came into the stock market in awarms last spring and summer may be forced to let go their stocks. The professional operators and cliques have been 'short' ever since theyunloaded to the public in the beginning of the summer. A few of the cliques are on the bull' side, for the lines are never distinctly drawn. It is the cliort which the 'bears' are making to depress stocks that disarranges the condition of the banks. In a war of cliques the momey market would not influence prices. Then the respective combatants would enabley the atrategy of overissing stock, or putting down 'third rails,' or some other plan inimical to the real value of the stock at issue. But now the cliques are arrayed against the public, and the latter are very sensitive to tight money. The 'interest account,' then, becomes a very important consideration, and its daily increasing proportions frighten the more timid and cause a 'break,' which decline leads others to throw their stocks overboard, and so the 'bears' succeed. Were the mischlef which is thus done confined to the gambiers, no one outside of their own numbers would complain. But such speculation absorbs the capital of the banks, and the nerchant who comes to look for accommodation such speculation absorbs the capital of the banks, and the merchant who comes to look for accommodation on his note at three to six months is slighted for the stock broker, who can give abundant collateral and stock broker, who can give abundant collateral and pay shaves and commissions. If we inspect the above statement carefully we shall find that the small decrease in deposits is due to the withdrawal of green-backs and the substitution for them of national carrency. Except in the flem of specie we believe the banks are no poorer than they were a week ago, but the stock themselves the contribution to the stock themselves the stock that the stock themselves the stock themselves the stock that the stock themselves the stock themselves the stock themselves the stock that the stock themselves the stock that the stock themselves the stock that the banks are no poorer than they were a week ago, but the stock 'bears' have contrived to nick out the greenbacks, and, by retaining them, startle the street with an extraordinary loss in reserve. They do this at a time when, owing to the programme of the Treasory, only two millions of bonds against the sale of a million of gold, making the total disburse-ment the ensuing week only a million of dollars. Mr. Boutwell again has an opportunity of defeating this conspiracy if he feels so disposed.

"The gold market during the week was alternately onspiracy if he feets so disposed.

"The gold market during the week was alternately weak and strong, the speculation on the whole being a falling one, owing, it is conjectured, to a hitch in the plans of the gold clique, by which one party thereof could not resist the temptation to unload and take profits." The balance decided to maintain and renew the movement, which was partially successful, but required great perseverance, as the complications in French monetary affairs on which the movement had been originally based suddenly vanished with the restoration of Napoleon's heatth. "Foreign exchange was firmer on the disappearance of borrowing rates and the re-establishment of high carrying rates in the gold lean market. Sight sterling recovered to 10% but at the close yielded to 168%, and sixty days was quoted 108% for prime. "Southern securities were dull and without fea-

"Southern securities were don' and without lea-ture except for the special tax bonds of North Caro-lina, which declined, and the Tennessees, which were active and higher.

"The wild speculation in the Gold Room, the un-easiness and activity in the money market, and the general 'bear' movement of the week led to a de-cline of allout two per cent, in the leading issues of line of about two per cent, in the leading issues of Government bonds. On Saturday, under a temporary change in the rate on call and through a feeling that the bear movement had touched bottom, there was a reaction and prices were steady.

His Chances for the Tennessee Senatorship.

Advices from Tennessee from trustworthy sources indicate that formidable opposition is concentrated against Andrew Johnson, rendering his election to the Senate very uncertain, if not impossible. The fact that his election would give both Senators, the Governor, Secretary of State, and Superintendent of Education to East Tennessee, will unite the strength of Middle and West Tennessee in support of a repre-sentative man from either of the latter sections. It Appointments.

George N. Griffiths, M. D., of Louisville, late Major 2d Kentucky Cavairy, was to-day appointed Examining Surgeon for Kentucky under the Pension laws. General Sherman and the Secretaryship of War, Special Despatch to The Evening Telegraph. Special Despatch to The Evening Telegraph.

Washington, Sept. 13.—The last commission of General Sherman, as Secretary of War, supersedes the advaterim commission, and makes him Secretary of War absolutely and de facto until some other name shall be sent to the Senate. The President and members of his Cabinet hold that there is no law to prevent General Sherman filling both offices, Secretary of War and General of the Army, the only objection being that he cannot receive pay for both, and must elect which salary he will receive. Indeed, it is now held by prominent officials that there is no law in the United States to prevent one man holding two offices, and several of them do that very thing.

Assistant Secretary Richardson is still a judge in Massachusetts, and will shortly go to that State to hold court. He holds on to that position because the Assistant Secretaryship is not congenial to his tastes, and he has never yet determined whether he will remain here. The probabilities are that he will vacate the Assistant Secretaryship are leaves in the control of the contr taryship ere long. More Proofs.

More Proofs.

It will be remembered that some time ago there was a question whether Lieutenant-Governor Applegate of Alabama could also hold an Internal Revenue office, and it has been decided by the department that there is no Federal law to prohibit it, and that if it is prohibited at all it must be under the State law. Secretary Boutwell is expected to return here the last of this week, when Assistant Secretary Richardson will go to Massachusetts. Mr. Boutwell has nearly completed his annual report to Congress, and will put on the finishing touches when he arrives here. The Coming Election. The Pennsylvania Republican Association had another meeting on Saturday night and perfected a rangements for sending its members home to vote at the ensuing election. Fares on railroads running into the State have been very materially reduced.

The Avondale Relief Fund, The association also appointed a committee to solicit subscriptions for the relief of the families of the miners killed at Avondale. Officers, employes, and marine guards at the Washington Navy Yard on Saturday subscribed upwards of one hundred and lifty dollars for the relief of the sufferers by the Avondale disaster.
